

IN HONOR OF ALFRED TWU

- WHEREAS, Alfred Twu served on the City of Berkeley's Zero Waste Commission for an impressive eight years, becoming one of the few commissioners to reach the eight-year term limitation; and
- WHEREAS, Alfred brought their knowledge from working on waste reduction in the student co-ops to the commission, helping to advance crucial legislation such as the Single-Use Disposables Ordinance and projects such as the redesign of the Transfer Station; and
- WHEREAS, Alfred has served their community in countless other ways, including as a Housing Advisory Commissioner, Landmarks Preservation Commissioner, Assembly District Delegate to the Democratic Party, and co-founder of the California Democratic Renters Council; and
- WHEREAS, Alfred brings joy and whimsy to the Berkeley community and beyond through their brightly-colored paintings, utility box illustrations on Telegraph Avenue, and urban planning-themed board games; and
- WHEREAS, Alfred Twu embodies the foundational traits of creativity, civic participation, and public service that the City of Berkeley strives for.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that I, Jesse Arreguin, Mayor of the City of Berkeley, do hereby proclaim February 23, 2021 as in the City of Berkeley.

Jesse Arreguin
Mayor
